Work On 9,000 Acre Water Control Unit Begins At Hillsboro Plantation

Authorizes New Water Main To Be Installed

Need of Negro Health Clinic Before the City Commission

The lobby of the City Commission room was well filled with white and colored delegates which had matters to present to the attention of the body on Wednesday night.

The first delegation heard was that representing the farmers who operate trucks over in colored town to pick up labor and bean picking crews. Commission determined that only the west side of Fifth street would be used for parking of trucks for loading and portions of Sixth street in a like manner. There will be no north bound traffic for such trucks on Fifth street and no trucks allowed to load from the center of the streets. Trucks will proceed south to Avenue B for one block, and then west for one block, then proceed either north or south to get to main highways.

A large delegation from the Belle Glade Negro Civic club, headed by W. C. Taylor, appeared in behalf of a health measure for that portion of the city. Their spokesman presented the fact that the TB clinic would soon need be moved from the school property to a new location. It was to ask assistance of the Commission to secure such a location that the delegation appeared.

Mr. Steel, of the State Health Department, told the Commission that Belle Glade was the worst cess spot for social diseases of anywhere in the state, and steadily growing worse. He stated he had knowledge from his superior officers that if a location could be secured, that the State Health Department had funds for a building and its equipment for a general health center from surplus Army supplies. Commission will give thorough investigation to this most important civic project.

The Commission took two important steps. One was that it could and would secure a loan of around $21,500 for the placement of a 16-inch water main between the two water towers and directed authorization to the Goebel Construction Company to proceed with the additional work. Secondly, it provided $600 for the salary of a recreational park director for the balance of the school year, the salary to be $75 a month for half time service.

DDT The Atomic Bomb Of Insecticide World

Dr. John T. Creighton, Entimogolist of the University at Gainesville states that DDT is dangerous to cattle, bees and other needed and helpful insects, and there is so much that is not known about DDT that the public should not be taken in with its cure-all ideas advanced by some.

"DDT should be handled with care as it seems to be toxic to humans; black cattle can stand very little and DDT should be used only with advice from those studying it."

Norman Haslip, of the Fritz Stein, and formerly with the Experiment Station outlined some advantages found in insect control on beans, cabbage and potatoes. Control of 12 insects is assured.

Mr. Dixon, entimologist at the Station states that DDT is effective on horn flies and stable flies and that care should be exercised in its use. Black cattle are particularly affected by anything more than a very weak solution.

Local Citizens Give Generously For Favored Projects

When it comes to generous donations from private sources for civic betterment projects, there is no town in the country that is more generous in its gifts than just Belle Glade. When a proposed project has true merits, and the sales talk is backed up by facts and figures, then liberal support is forthcoming.

There are two outstanding examples of this nature, namely the Country Club of the Everglades and the South Shore Athletic Council Athletic Field. No finer fields for golf and athletic events can be found anywhere in Florida and both are pretty pictures to look upon.

The golf club in its pretty location is indeed a view that few people will never forget, especially viewed from the dyke bank. Those who play its greens know the excellent condition in which it is kept ready for play. The club house is much used for club entertainments and use of membership. This project has an estimated money value of $50,000 or more, all met by public donations.

Through representations of local citizens the School Board was induced to purchase the Spriggs 22-acre farm, just 330 feet east of the school grounds. The Board granted permission for an athletic field to be built and donated the seats.

Over 12,000 yards of muck and rock were hauled in to build up the field and provide a parking space for several hundred cars.

Grass has been planted and an excellent sod provided for the playing field 18 flood lights have been provided; seating capacity for 1500 installed and the first game won by the home town boys.

Money donations by the City Commission and citizens amounted to $9100 aside from the use of trucks and in a lot of instances of drivers and other workers. Coach Cook in between making a football team has busied himself with the field which is the pride of the community.

At a later date it is expected that a baseball diamond will be provided.

Despite all the donated labor, materials and equipment and a fairly successful season financially so far in the sale of tickets, there remains a debt of $3,000 to be paid off.

The boys have a first class supply of equipment and uniforms and have been given performances that make the public glad to have cooperated as it has.

Display of Ramie

A very interesting display of ramie is being made in the Murphy store window and is attracting much attention and comment. The display includes the growing plant, the stems after cutting, and the processed silken like strands used in commercial ways.

Rams Flaunt Pelts Of Wildcats In 14-7 Victory

Cook's Lads Played Superior Ball Against The Wildcats

That bunch of Wildcats which represent West Palm Beach High on the gridiron, were just aching to get their claws into the fleeces of those Golden Rams from Belle Glade at Anderson field last Friday night, to see if they could pull out a victory, the first of the current season in five tries. Those farmerboys from the muck lands and woods had done a little wild cat hunting themselves, so when the battle ended they had the wild cat pelt hanging on their horns in the way of a 14 to 7 victory.

All through the first half the Rams showed their superiority over the East Coast city, as the Cats seemed dazzled and unable to solve that double T-Wing shift which the Cook boys were using so effectively.

It was a singular condition that is seldom seen in a game that one team only has two opportunities to handle the ball for a near full half, but that was the Cat's showing. One on the kick off and again to punt out to protect their goal, after having recovered the ball on a fumble as the Rams was threatening a touch down.

Between halves, the West Palm Beach coaching staff must have done some powerful talking to their men for they came out and played much better ball and managed to score one touchdown. Those last five minutes of play were nerve racking for Glades fans, for when the Cats began that passing game, the only way they could possibly get a touchdown, it looked serious, but the scheme was blocked and Belle Glade got the ball near their goal and managed to hold it safe until the game ended.

East Coast fans had heard of the playing prowess of Cherry, Bearden, Cromartie and Harrell, and those boys did not disappoint them in their spectacular play. The Cats ganged up on Cherry and hemmed him in from making any long runs, but they could not stop his line plunges or his superb tackling and passing.

Bearden scored the first touch down for the Rams in the second quarter by a line plunge and Cherry got the extra point. The Cats tied up the score by a fine pass to Shoemaker in the right coffin corner and the same identical play was made to get the seventh point.

The Rams got a bit angry in the fourth quarter and when they pushed the ball to the sixteen yard line Cherry sent a true pass into McClatchey's arms and he fell over the line for a second and winning touchdown and

BODIES RESOLUTIN ALL OVER FLORIDA

Without any assurance that the Interstate Commerce Commission will even read the resolutions let alone be influenced by them, Florida and the east coast especially has undergone an epidemic of arguments concerning the advisability of the DuPonts or the Atlantic Coast Line controlling the Florida East Coast railroad and have resoluted ojus.

Those who have resoluted one way can't make up their minds whether they did right or wrong and some interesting discussions have resulted.

The local City Commission and the Chamber of Commerce have become victims of the indecision, but both stuck by their guns when the smoke had cleared away.

For twenty and more years the public have resoluted about unfair rail rates in the south and the Interstate Commerce Commission did not see fit to treat the public other than as subjects to be told what was best for it until Governor Arnall of Georgia got the Supreme Court to order them about.

Those who have had time to resolute have enjoyed it and our opinion is that is the greatest good of such resolutin. If we could affect the decision, then a good cause would have been helped.

Florida Vegetable Committee To Hold Two Day Meeting

Conference will Deal With Question of Farm Products and Markets

The fall conference of commodity groups and committees of the Florida Vegetable Committee will convene for a two day session at West Palm Beach on Oct. 23 and 24 to develop an industry program for the 1945-46 season on beans, cabbage, celery, lettuce and escarole, potatoes and tomatoes, according to plans announced by LaMonte Graw, Committee manager.

The conference will open at one p. m. Oct. 23 at the George Washington hotel. The meeting was originally scheduled for Clewiston but later was changed to West Palm Beach.

Sub-committees on labor under Chairman Dixon Pearce of Miami, and transportation under Chairman E. W. Lins of So. Miami will hold concurrent sessions during the conference.

Also attending the conference will be representatives of agricultural experiment stations, transportation companies and ice companies.

Commodity leaders of the Florida vegetable industry heading the various groups are: R. Y. Creech, Belle Glade, beans; Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, Belle Glade, celery; L. L. Stuckey, Pahokee, cabbage; E. W. Lins, lettuce and escarole; Graham W. Lee, Hastings, potatoes, and Dixon Pearce, tomatoes.

"The vegetable industry faces many serious problems during the coming year," Graw stated. "All of these commodities except celery and escarole will likely remain under price control. Present indications are that the plantings will be equal to the 1944-45 season, when there were periods of over-supply. With the national income reduced from the wartime level of approximately 165 billion dollars to a figure nearer 130 billion for the reconversion period, there is ample room for doubt that fresh vegetables will enjoy the sustained demand or relatively high prices of the war years."

L. L. Stuckey, chairman of the FVC will preside over the general sessions of the conference.

Lost Purse in Big City

Ivan VanHorn, while in West Palm Beach on business Saturday, reported to the police there that he had either lost or his pocket had been picked, which contained a $100 check, several small checks and some bills.

Carmen Salvatore, school board member, has secured from the Board of Public Instrutcion, a loan of $1,600 with which to purchase 34 band instruments from the U. S. Sugar Corporation.

Preliminary Survey Is Being Made

A preliminary survey is being made from South Bay to Six Mile Bridge via Vinegar Bend for the new cut-off on State Road No. 25 which is to to be constructed in the near future as a part of the State Road building post war program. The new section of the highway will proceed due east from Vinegar Bend to intersect State Road No. 25 again near Six Mile Bridge and eliminate the triangular present route through Belle Glade, several curves and shorten the highway considerably.

It is understood that the plans call for a 200 foot highway thru the town of South Bay, the elimination of the present one way bridge over the North New River Canal where a two way concrete bridge will be built which will be lowered several feet to the present level of the highway. It is also understood that the sharp curve at Six Mile Bridge will be widened and a new two lane concrete bridge built at that point to eliminate the present bottle neck according to the statement of County Commissioner Paul Rardin.

Island People Are In Bad Mess From High Waters

Since the Government has closed the gates at the West end of the Hillsboro canal, the Island farmers and dwellers are in a h--- of a fix and muss. The lake is now above the 17-foot level and still raising. As a result of these conditions, plus the tide winds, waters are more than two feet over the Island highway in places and no traffic, either by car or tractor is available.

The inundation of the Islands with this tide water knocks out the practibility or ability of the farmers to attempt cropping projects, and even tho they could make a crop, removal of same would be an almost impossibility. The tempers of the Island people are just a bit ruffled over conditions, but their hands seems to be tied in attempting or bringing about any relief.

Ellis Murphy Receives Discharge

After serving for the past 31 months in the European theatre, Ellis Murphy arrived home Wednesday with his release from the Army which he received at Camp Blanding enroute. He has been awarded five bronze battle stars and a Presidential Unit Citation and served with the 771st Tank Battalion, 84th Infantry in Italy, Africa, Corsicia, France and Germany. Mrs. Murphy and daughter, Judy, have made their home here with her sister, Mrs. C. T. Cone and family while Murphy was overseas.

Rock Roads And Pumps On Each Section To Be Feature In Development

Plans Call For Further Development as Land Use Is Provided

Following a four-day session of its Board of Directors the new owners of the erstwhile 75,000 acre Brown's Farm, now known as the Hillsboro Plantations, are announcing a program of water control and rock roads that reaches into the millions.

The first unit of the undertaking, 9,000 acres, will be made ready for use just as soon as the necessary work can be done. Manager-Engineer Turner Wallis has the plans of reclamation about prepared and will begin letting contracts at an early date.

The 1,800 acres already under water control will be made a part of the new development.

Mr. Wallis outlines the activity as follows:::

"Cattle finishing, ramie and sugar cane as well as some vegetable production are the industries which are planned for the use of the lands in the first unit to be completed.

"The production-line volume of farming in the Glades has brought out forcibly the importance of rock roads to facilitate the movement of the crops at harvest time. The time element, as well as wear and tear on equipment, with the consequent higher costs for harvesting, loom large in overall costs. In the case of celery where 750 field crates are hauled to the packing house a penny per crate saved might mean the difference between black and red ink on the undertaking. Beans, escarole, cabbage and potatoes that must be hauled from the field by tractors instead of fully loaded trucks must enjoy a favorable market to preserve the financial advantage. With these thoughts in mind, we are building rock roads to each section o fland.

"We are continuously adding to the knowledge of proper water control in the muck lands, and our improvements are taking advantage of the up-to-date experiences in planning and building our systems.

"Water requirements will be provided for as well as a margin of safety for flood control conditions.

"Our plans, as outlined by the Directors are to improve lands as fast as successful land use is provided or devised.

"Long range programs of land use have been studied and planned and the experiences of others with weather and soil conditions weighed in making decisions.

"The public will be offered the privilege of using portions of the land and especially the new land as it is made with water control and roads for agricultural use for potatoes, celery and cabbage.

"The buildings and equipment necessary to such an undertaking as ours will be enlarged and added to as they are aavilable and are needed.

Among those attending the three day Board session were Kenneth Baxter and Jack Stewart of Philadelphia, Emil Schram, New York City, Sam Ranson of Wichita, Kan., John H. McCall of Dallas, Texas, Colin English of Tallahassee Turner Wallis and Luther Jones.

A tour was made of the Glades and included inspection of the new East Shore Drainage District, Ramie at the Prison Farm, the Tiedke cane farm at Clewiston, the cattle fattening program of the U. S. Sugar Company and the sugar and starch mill. Crops in the territory visited were inspected.

Road Department Office

The State Highway Department has opened up an office in the Silver Dollar building for the use of its officials during the construction of the Lake Road improvement. Persons having business with the engineer will be able to find him at this location.

South Bay To Have Street Lights

Town lights are being put up under direction of the Town Council by the Florida Power and Light Company. Poles for these lights are now being set ready for installation. In all, 18 lights will be installed along the main business and residential streets according to Town Clerk Alvin B. Crow.

Bids have also been called for for the construction of the proposed Town Hall, Jail and Fire Station to be erected on the Main Street diagonally opposite the school building. It is understood that several building contractors are preparing bids on this building.

Miss Cora Rhodes Dies

After a lingering decline in health for several months, Miss Cora A. Rhodes died at the home of her niece, Mrs. J. O. Jameson, on Monday night, with whom she had made her home for the past five years.

Miss Rhodes was born at Cottageville, W. Va., April 6, 1866, but spent most of her early life in Syracuse and Portsmouth, O.

She held her membership at the Community Methodist church and was a member of the Woman's Society and Bethany Bible class.

Following the request of the deceased, services were held at the Community church on Wednesday, conducted by Rev. J. O. Jameson. Burial will be made in the Rhodes family lot at Portsmouth. Mrs. J. O. Jameson and Mrs. E. W. Vickers accompanied the body North to be present at the burial ceremonies.

New Opening At Post Office

In order to facilitate the handling of the city mail, Postmaster George Farnall is having an additional door cut in the front of the post office building. Through this door the colored patrons will be served. This will segregate the white patrons from the customary winter season crowding in the lobby of colored people.

OBSERVATION and Comment

By John M. Gledhill

Sara Creech, of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, relates that the shifting form the Park to the Gymnasium for the Thursday night's civic celebration, was the quickest she and her supporting attendants ever made. But everything turned out all right in the end.

It was fitting that men and women who had given their time and labor in behalf of the Ration and Selective Service Commission, during the war period, should have been honored for such services in the excellent manner the club chose to bring about such recognition. If you want something done right, just let the women handle it, for they have a knack and a spirit for putting things over successfully. The sponsor club of this city affair is always awake and alive to do progressive and pleasing acts.

As I sat in the City Commission meeting and heard Engineer Dodd tell the members about the water works lay out, and how things should be done to improve the workings of the water distribution system, I could see the wisdom of his words, and I am sure that the City Fathers did too. I am going to make a guess that the additional $20,000, to build the connecting water mains between the two towers, will be provided and the plant put in and operated as per original plans drawn by Engineer Dood. The cost of

SERVICE MEN who FIGHT and WRITE

LT. CARL THOMPSON

"Now that censorship regulations have been lifted I'm able to cover a broader subject. Will try and go back a little and bring the past up to the present.

"My ship came to the Pacific in September 1944 for the purpose of serving as flag ship for Vice Admiral Harry W. Hill, then Rear Admiral and Commander amphibious forces group two. After the Iwo invasion Rear Admiral Hill was made Vice Admiral and at the same time commander fifth amphibious force Pacific, the command that Vice Admiral Turner once held.

"Our first invasion was Iwo Jima, and there is the last account I had of Nash Lloyd. I had met him in Pearl Harbor and come to find out that we were in the same task force. His ship shoved off from Iwo before the island was secured and I haven't been fortunate enough to run into him again. We stayed at Iwo until the island was secured before going back to Pearl.

"Our next invasion, of course, was Okinawa. Probably one of the toughest ones of all the invasions. Fortunately, we came through it without too much damage. Bombs dropped close aboard several times and one plane made a suicide dive at our ship, but missed and crashed close aboard, causing little damage by flying shrapnel. I was fortunate enough to escape injuries. The best explanation I can give of the whole situation is to see the Navy's picture "The Fleet Came to Stay." That tells more in detail than I could ever tell.

"After Okinawa was declared secured we went back to Pearl and went into dry dock. We were still in dry dock when peace terms were declared. However, shortly after peace terms we proceeded to Manila via Eniwetok. Stayed there for a couple of weeks before coming on to Sasebo, Ko., Kyushu Japan via Okinawa.

"At Sasebo a Jap Admiral and his staff came aboard and surrendered the Jap naval base there to Admiral Hill. It so happened that my duties were at the gangway when they came aboard and I got a good look at the yellow devils. All the bowing and saluting could not hide their deceit and contempt. Sasebo is one of Japan's larger naval bases but they had no ships left to run it with. A couple of old carriers were tied up there.

"The country in Kyushu is very beautiful. All mountainous, and the Japs have not wasted one foot of the mountain side. They have it all terraced and are farming right up the mountain side. They run almost straight up. How they prevent erosion is a marvel. It looked as if it took years to terrace the mountain side because all the terraces were built out of hand picked stones. The cities, like the Japs, are filthy.

"We were at Sasebo only a couple of days before going on around the coast of Kyushu to Nagasaki where the second atomic bomb was dropped. There I spent one full day looking over the damage caused by the bomb. The unbelieveable things that I had been reading about began to shape up and become a reality. We were fortunate enough to get a truck and ride through the bombed area. I thought Manila was pretty well torn to bits by bombs, but Nagasaki is completely destroyed, and I do mean destroyed. Building after building which escaped fire was flat on the ground from the blast. Steel beams were melted and twisted, glass melted and poured on the ground, trees were blown up by the roots, some of them split open and for two and a half miles up the mountain side there was nothing left but earth. It is amazing and almost unbelieveable even after seeing it, that one bomb could possibly do so much damage. There was not a window left for ten miles around. Tile roofs were blown and burned into sand particles and tin was burned which left ashes like burned paper. The blast and fire must have killed thousands and people are still dying from the effects. I can easily understand why the Japs

We Are Recommended For a Federal Building

The much awaited report on proposed new Federal building projects came before Congress and among the places recommended for building such structures, was the City of Belle Glade. Our sister cities of Pahokee, Clewiston and Okeechobee were also included in the list.

It was due to agitation and requests filed with Congressman Dwight Rogers, when he was visiting his district this summer, that these cities got onto the list. Belle Glade, Pahokee and Clewiston are listed for buildings to cost $85,000 and Okeechobee for $95,000.

Congress is yet to act on the appropriations and as it will take time to select sites and get contracts on favored projects, before any building activities can be started, our towns will go on laboring in crowded unsatisfactory post office locations.

The Post Office Department is very specific when it comes to plans for its buildings, especially so as to locations, which must meet with specified requirements. Bids are usually asked for on sites and on these figures, a choice is made.

In most cities, especially the size of Belle Glade, there are not many choice locations for a building the size which are hoped for in the Glades towns, and its likely to be rather difficult to find suitable listings of properties. True, citizens might locate sites that are desirable, but try and get the owners to part with them at prices that the Government will consider of accept.

However, one of Belle Glade's bodies, the Chamber of Commerce, already has its committee named to look into this site proposition in order that possible sites may be ready when the Post Office Department is ready to act.

Reward

For four long years the Belle Glade OPA Rationing Board has been efficiently functioning in behalf of the Government and our citizens. Now that the war is over such services as the Board rendered are decreased and there is consolidation of agencies throughout the land with the larger city units and Belle Glade's office closes in November.

The local board actions at all times has not altogether pleased the patrons, but in making refusals for this or that want, it has followed out the OPA regulations under which it was forced to work. However, on the whole, the personnel of the office and members of the Board have done a pretty competent job of their undesirable task.

That this fact is established is shown by the act of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, aided by other civic forces and the City Administration, to make special recognition of their services at a public function in which scrolls were presented to those who have served a year or more in office.

Then there is also the Selective Service Board, which had large Glade territory jurisdiction in the selection of men for the service. Its record has been an outstanding one, showing it to have handled one of the largest volume of business of any Board in the state.

It, too, had its ticklish decisions to make, not always pleasing to some affected, but always decided on the merits of the case. The best interests of the Government, the community and the men have always been considered before final decisions were made.

The same source which honored the Ration Board members, likewise in a similar manner honored the Selective Service Board members.

This act of recognition was well planned and shows that Belle Glade does appreciate services well and efficiently rendered. It is worthy of record in the City's epoch history for future reference in the years to come.

CINEMATIC CHATTER

By Malcolm Millar

One of the funniest comedies from a recognized writer to be screened at the Everglades Theatre this coming Sunday and Monday when "The Affairs of Susan" moves in.

In the cast are Joan Fontaine, George Brent, Walter Abel, Dennis O'Keefe, Don DeFore, Rita Johnson and Byron Barr.

A beautiful young girl lives in primitive surroundings on an island off the coast of Maine. She is discovered by an enterprising young man who brings her to New York and teaches her how to dress, how to make-up, how to behave. She becomes an actress and marries a theatrical producer.

During the period of her arrival in New York and up to this marriage there is yell after yell of unrestrained laughter, as situation after situation follow so rapidly that it is difficult at times to keep up with the pace.

Tuesday-Wednesday brings Wallace Beery, Binny Barnes and an all star cast in "Barbara Coast Gent" which you know will be loaded with fun with such stars as these. The story listens interesting and altogether it looks like another Beery smash-a-roo!

On the same bill comes "Let's Go Steady" with Pat Parrish and Jackie Moore, (two very clever kids) and it promises to be a very "teen-age laugh show.

Thursday-Friday I see Ann Southern, John Hodiak and a very excellent cast in "Maisie Goes to Reno." This also is a very excellent laughing show, with a good story and fine direction.

On the same bill comes Richard Arlen and Jane Frazee with able assistance, presenting "The Big Bonanza." This is the only real action show on the week and one knows that any show that Richard Arlen is starred in is loaded with he-man action that is entertaining to all lovers of the out-doors.

Saturday brings "Raiders of the Border." This one lists an all star cast of Western players and promises all of the thrills needed in this type of show.

Second chapter of "Flying Cadets" is on this bill. Judging from the first chapter this serial looks like it is going to be plenty good. I advise you not to miss a single chapter.

See you at the movies—Mal.

New Produce Company For South Bay Growers

The Everglades Produce Company, owned and operated by Frank Anderson and Forrest Norton, have reconditioned the former J. S. Aly packing house at South Bay, which has been more recently occupied by the Cees Peet Gladiola packing plant, installed four of the latest type electrically driven grading belts and other equipment necessary to handle snap beans and cabbage.

The partners expressed themselves as optimistic regarding the coming season in spite of the serious handicaps of unfavorable weather and water conditions now being experienced by the growers of this area.

The two men have had ample experience as they have been associated with the Louis Weiman Packing plant and later with the South Bay Growers and Distributors.

OBSERVATIONS

operating the larger and improved plant will be much less than the cost of the present set up. ..

Did you know that Lou Betzner has been in the hardware business in Belle Glade for 17 years and at the same location. Lou cut his eye teeth in business by being a grocery clerk for V. C. Denton at South Bay, then broke away and made his venture as a hardware store merchant. The building in which he started business was not a pretentious one, but he held on in it until he erected his present block. A few years after Lou went into the hardware game, V. C. Denton closed out his grocery stock and also opened up a hardware store at Pahokee, which he operated until about a year ago. Thus Betzner and Denton can be said to be the pioneer hardware men of the Glades.

The main cry in Belle Glade these days is more homes and business locations. We cannot grow or accommodate those who want to come and join us in making the Glades section and our city a real metropolis. These needs must come and somehow they are going to be provided.

We just can't stop progress and opportunity when they come knocking at our door.

If six men picked at random could get up and make as interesting and convincing talks as did those Lion debaters on the Compulsatory Military Training question, then it would be a mental treat to hear them.

Potato planting has about come to an end for this fall crop and some men who had not anticipated planting celery are getting into the game with the hopes of making up some losses on the potato harvest.

Mayor George A. Taylor stated to the City Commission that he had been very highly complimented by many citizens on the prompt and effective work being done by the present police force. The Mayor is also catching onto the police court technique and can hand out those sentences almost as handily as did former Mayor Baker.

Rev. Wm. C. Hatch, during the erection of his Gospel Tabernacle tent, proved that he could handle manual tools as easily and effectively as some of his paid laborers. Don't know which way the compliment will rest, but the Dominie had a facial appearance not unlike that of former Governor James Cox of Ohio.

If the Chamber of Commerce could attract all persons who are inquiring about Belle Glade as indicated by the AAA, then it and the town could expect an immense influx into this section. Population brings business, business improvements, and improvements are what our city needs more than anything else.

FIGHT AND WRITE

wanted peace. I can also understand President Truman when he said, 'thank God it came to us'. I would hate to think what would have happened to the world if the Japs had had the bomb instead of us.

"Right now we are at Wakayama, Honshu, Japan, which is just south of Tokyo. The country here is about the same as all the country in the southern islands of Japan, all mountainous. We have a few more Jap cities to look over before heading back to the good ole U. S.

"By the way, I have the points an should be out of the Navy by Christmas or shortly thereafter."

CLIFFORD ALLEN BM 2|c

"Hello everybody. It's been a long time since I've written to the Belle Glade paper, so I thought I'd write and let you know how much I appreciate the Herald. It keeps me in touch with the happenings around home that I can't gather from other sources.

"I am now at Lingayen Gulf, on northern Luzon. We expect to leave here any time for Osaka, Japan, with part of the Army of Occupation. So if you see some landing craft mingling around on the beach with a large "37" painted on the front, in the news reel of course, it'll be one from my ship.

"I'm not much of a guy to say it, but thanks to you people of the good old U. S. A., cause it was your money that you invested in war bonds that gave us the ships, planes, guns, bombs and tanks to knock the Japs back to their islands. When our ship sailed into Tokyo your money was there in the form of ships, guns an the other implements of war.

"I know your hearts and prayers are with us, so I want you to know that you sent the Japs what they got, we only carried it."

JOHN F. BASS WT 3|c

John Bass returned to the States last month on the first vessel of her kind to return since the close of the war "The Big Mamie." She has operated for the past three years in two oceans and sailed more than 255,000 miles to participate in 35 engagements. She sank three enemy warships, including the French battleship "Jean Bart" and seriously damaged two other fighting ships.

Bass is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bass of Chosen and while on leave here was married to Miss Edna Wynn. He has left for Seattle, Wash., to report for further duty with the Navy.

again Cherry converted.

The Rams threatened for two more touchdowns, which were thwarted on the line, once by loosing the ball on a fumble and again on the interference in a short pass at the goal line.

Coach Cook's boys played a swell game, but not quite as co-ordinated as in the Vero Beach game, but the victory was indeed a sweet morsel for them against the larger school. It was plunge, push and short runs up and down the field that added the victory for the Rams, and they held the Cats very well, except on the one lone touchdown play. The Cats could not do much with that string Ram line.

Even though it was their own home team being defeated the Palm Beach fans were most liberal in their applause for the Rams good playing.
